

FontisMedia announces

integrated

editorial office & production

The workflow solution that integrates a web-based editorial office and production; with an intuitive interface to guide the editorial team step-by-step. From receipt of the manuscript to the typeset pages. FontisWorks FULLPROCESS is the only tool you need for the full publication management of STM Journals and Books.

All manuscripts accepted for publication are automatically processed and output as DTD-validated XML and high-quality professionally typeset pages in PostScript or PDF format.

FontisWorks

Editorial Office Solution

Editorial content management from author submission to publisher production:

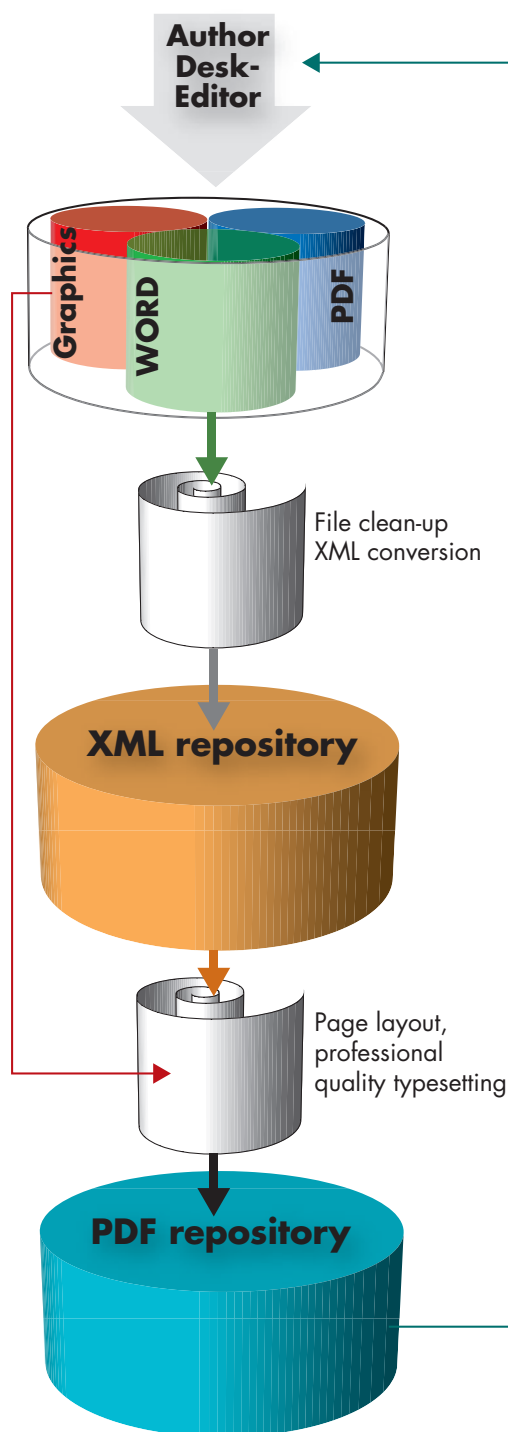

Full suite of tools for authors, reviewers and editorial staff

Worldwide coordination of editors

Centralised administration allowing supervision and reporting

Web interface and documentation in English or French

Responsive and dedicated staff to provide training and support

Flexibility and Service

FontisMedia promises its clients that their publishing workflow, no matter how complex, will be fully integrated into the FontisWorks system. We take the time to communicate with the Publisher and to understand the precise meaning of each specification; the FontisWorks solution is then tailored to the process.

Visual and Intuitive

FontisWorks is organised around its "Control-Panel concept", offering editors a one-stop overview of the entire project. The information is graphically constructed in a way that gives the editor all the information he needs, without a single additional click of the mouse, to determine which further action is required.

Process Integration

The peer review process is a single link in the chain of activities that often starts with a project proposal and will terminate with the successful promotion of the product and fulfillment of sales. FontisMedia will work with your editorial, production and IT teams to make content management a fully integrated aspect of your workflow.

FontisWorks FULLPROCESS

The Complete Editorial Office
& Production Solution

Our innovative approach integrates the powerful FontisWorks editorial office with prepress workflow, allowing your company to save time and expense. With FontisWorks FULLPROCESS, an accepted article can be typeset to proof and published online the same day.

A one-step process produces a DTD-validated XML file, and a professional-quality typeset document in PostScript or PDF.

Up to 40% cost savings for your file structuring and typesetting using a fully automated and customized process.

Almost instantaneous processing from the MS-WORD document file to the professionally typeset article.

Many features such as bibliographic reference checking can be added and customized upon demand.